

London Brass was created in 1986 from members of the world-famous Philip Jones Brass Ensemble, having been brought to a close by its namesake and founder upon retirement. Today, London Brass comprises a pool of the best UK players, from backgrounds featuring every genre of music: contemporary, classical, jazz, pop and film.

Described by the New York Times as “the classiest brass act going”, they are the UK’s most famous and long-established brass ensemble. London Brass have produced ground-breaking recordings on their own record label & with Warner Classics. The ensemble has appeared worldwide in concert and with educational events.

In very recent times, London Brass has toured throughout Europe and performed at various notable landmarks in the capital: Royal Albert Hall, Cadogan Hall, Barbican, Westminster Abbey, Westminster Cathedral, St Paul’s Cathedral, The Old Whitehall & Banqueting House and 10 Downing Street, plus, for global televised occasions, such as the BBC Proms, Millennium Celebration Concert, Queens Jubilee and Papal Visit.

London Brass continue with their very popular series each December in Germany, performing festive concerts to full capacity houses in wonderful venues such as the Elb Philharmonie, Köln Philharmonie & Berlin Philharmonie halls.

TRUMPETS

Andrew Crowley	Manager
Gareth Small	Principal, Hallé
Philip Cobb	Principal, BBC Symphony Orchestra
James Davison	Free Lance Jazz Artist

HORN

Richard Bissill	Principal, Royal Opera
-----------------	------------------------

TUBA

Oren Marshall	Soloist and Educator
---------------	----------------------

TROMBONES

Lindsay Shilling	Principal, Royal Opera
Byron Fulcher	Principal, Philharmonia Orchestra
Richard Edwards	Freelance, film score jazz & pop musician
David Stewart	Principal Bass Trombone, BBC Concert Orchestra

